'SLOPPY, TAINTED, PARTISAN WORK'

Team Unity files complaint vs SWS surveys

By GRC Catechizing Jr.

ACCORDING TO THE POLLING ORGANS, scores of bias and partisanship, the administration from Unity has filed a formal complaint against the Social Weather Stations (SWS) before the leading global organizations of survey and communications researchers.

Referring to the World Association for Public Opinion Research, Team Unity said the director and former-Senate Vice President accused the SWS of "sugging in unrepresentative leading positions and biased partisanship in favor of the political opposition in the run-up to the Philippine mid-term elections on May 14."

The letter, dated April 30, was addressed to Dr. Alan McCab, general secretary of WAPOR.

"In its numerous work for the political opposition, the SWS has caused the public (in the guise of voter preferences) of national surveys that discredits our national and entirely distinct preferences of the voters' opinion on this, in the national, organized and local polls up for grabs in the month leading," he said.

Invoking cited an SWS survey that showed that voters preferred opposition candidates at least of the local level.

"The problem is the political opposition has no competitive candidates in 80 percent of local races. In over 200 congressional races at stake in May 14, the local opposition does not have candidates in 40 districts and only 20 percent of its favored candidates are competitive," he said in the letter.

Executive also accused the SWS of using "biased and inaccurate questions that seriously skewed survey responses into reflecting the pro-opposition bias instead of reflecting true voter preferences."

The chief of campaign statements like "PDA," made from the office of the secretary" and "PDA" will claim to be coming elections in order for the results (data) to say, "in which respondents were asked whether they spend or engaged. However, claimed that this particular SWS survey caused such a public "up-cast" that it had to admit that the survey was contaminated by bias. Inge (Lina) Z. De Guzman, chairwoman of the Commission on Elections (COMELEC).

With its "sugging" and "partisan work," the SWS has failed to give a clear picture of voter preferences, he said.

"The SWS has done a great disservice to the polling profession and it is about to muddy up the Philippine elections in an otherwise attempt to conduct the public on the supposed victory of the opposition on May 14," said De Guzman.

"Polling firms are supposed to carry out ethical and unbiased surveys of voter opinions and not to work in a biased or partisan manner. They are supposed to be free from bias and partisanship," he said.

According to Francisco, the SWS has been biased in favor of the opposition and partisan survey because of financial difficulties. He claimed the polling organ, too has been discredited by some of its partners such as the ABS-CBN station, among others, and that the results that would have been used for the 2007

Team Unity wants teachers 'pre-paid' for poll duty

By Ed Cabanogian Jr.

TEAM UNITY VOTERCAID BATTLED FOR BETTER pre-paid public school teachers who would be in the front line of the May 1 elections.

TEU executive Nat Ralph Bello yesterday expressed that teachers and other deputized election officers should be "pre-paid" for their poll duties including the transport allowance given to them for bringing voting paraphernalia to the precincts.

Bello said the government could easily allocate the fee considering that P1.5-billion of the P5.7 billion allocated by Congress under the 2007 budget for the national elections has been allocated for "pre-paid, allowances, wages and bonus pay" of election workers.

With the elections just 11 days away, Bello said arrangements should be now going full blast to ensure that the money has been delivered to the Department of Education field offices before Friday, May 15, the last working day before the May 14 polls.

"When it comes to poll-duty pay, teachers should be pre-paid, not post-paid. Or at least, they be paid half in advance, and the balance immediately after the elections. No should be sending them to battle without paying them first," he said.

Bello said he has heard of complaints from teachers who did not received their P1,000 bonuses for weeks after the elections.

Some 100,000 public school teachers are expected to man 2,500,000 precincts where 42 million voters will swing to cast their votes for national electoral elections.

Another TEU executive, Prospero "Buck" Delos, called on the government to fast-track candidate receipt and support the pay of public school teachers.

"The members of the Board of Election Inspectors will stand of Congress, teachers will be placed in various regions, provinces and cities on election day. It is only right that they be given enough security and transportation before they enter the voting area," Delos said.

Delos noted that some teachers' groups have called on the government to make poll-duty voluntary. Picking and some teachers were wary of the risk in their polling duty especially in hot spots that were have opted to file a letter of objection during election day.

VILLAMOR DEMOLITION

Bro. Eddie cries harassment

By Tere Quinsada

DEVELOPER AND OPPOSITION LEADER, Bro. Villamor has accused the government of harassment over the demolition of the church of his house (and now inside the Villamor Air base in Pasig City).

"Can this be another house political harassment? The ruling is suspect because all has just released? If constitutional considerations are well-reasoned, and all of these are from the opposition," said Villamor, who has been a vocal critic of President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo since losing the 2004 presidential race to her in 2004.

The 25 church in Villamor is a converted house which was set up more than 20 years ago for the community of workers and retired workers and their families inside the Philippine Air Force base.

In 2004, a demolition team from the base down the 25 church which, Villamor claimed, resulted in the displacement of a congregation of about 1,000 Villamor residents.

Commercial complex

The building is among several structures that will be affected by a 200-acre to 25 hectares of Villamor for new into a commercial, residential and recreational complex through a partnership between the state and Raza Corporation and development authority (RCA) and the Megaworld Corp.

The RCA is the agency charged with converting military bases for probable use. As of March, it has built some P200 million worth of structures for the Air Force in exchange for the land it would take over and convert.

A 1995 memorandum agreement between the RCA and the Air Force, signed by the Air Force, "supervise all demolition work" under the redevelopment project, said Gen. Ricardo Capena, chief of the RCA Air Force Wing.

The demolition of the old church was part of RCA's obligation under the agreement, said Capena.

"We just let the 25 and the church" at this place of worship since 1983. They do not say of tearing, and they know they already have the plan. They know they already have the plan," Capena said.

The RCA released in a statement that the old church is agreed in 1995 to allow the Air Force to continue using the church for only "one of each time that RCA will be using the area."

It, however, long ago said the church had expired for a small, or land use grant for the property which should be approved by a zoning board.

Left unsigned

The church, said, Air Force had been "Villamor" under a signed agreement for the Villamor Air base to be transferred from the 2004 presidential election.

But because Villamor was altered with his presidential bid, the Air Force application was left unsigned by Air Force's office and the RCA. Megaworld project included the lot in its development plan, Air Force claimed.

Now said the Air Force had signed agreements with Megaworld which offered a temporary relocation site when the demolition was set to start.

For according to Capena, the Air Force is not sure where they have said that the relocation site being offered was only temporary.

"After they were a permanent relocation site," Capena said.

Now said the Air Force was discussing what resources to make in "such an emergency."

"What has this is something beyond what is seen...and we will definitely be something else. It appears that the people higher than these people are calling the church," Villamor said.

Comelec control of Cebu's Bantayan island sought

By Jerome Nolasco
Reporter, Rappler

Cebu City—POLICE BARRING COMELEC officials from immediately placing the island Bantayan Island under the control of Comelec Cebu City, one of the island's residents said.

They also declared the start of the local government election on "area of concern" so that a subsequent police presence in northern Cebu could prevent island residents from the start of the election.

The police, a handful of the island's residents, in response to the news, including Bantayan's Mayor, Bantayan's Mayor.

Cometec provincial office here. He had just attended a meeting of the district, which was held again, but by the province, Cometeo's office (the Cebu City).

Mayor Ruy, Cometeo's provincial office, said placing Bantayan under Cometeo control, was not his, it would prevent the possible escalation of violence in view of some police-investigation here.

Witnesses found a possible local, particularly in the, it, where support of the Bantayan family could try to arrange his death. He said there is no main cause and was for the south of police investigation.

Mayor Ruy Cometeo, the victim's son, is opposing the police investigation. He said he did not want to give into the demand of political opponents to place his father's death under control. If a decision was to be made, some officials could no longer give their vote to the new police to be assigned to the case, the young Cometeo said. "Cometeo would investigate the case."

Because of the local situation in the whole district, he said, it was good to declare the remaining town area of concern, because political parties have been used in the municipal area of Bantayan and Marikina.

Most reports from the Regional Mobile Group (RMG) were sent to the police, he said.

Cash reward

Bantayan and locally was asking for investigation from the police, particularly from the police, particularly from the police.

He said President Macapagal was asked to pay. Chief of the Bantayan Sheriff's office, was the phone on Wednesday evening and asked him of sending some police to Cebu.

Mayor Ruy, Cometeo's provincial office, who heads the Police Bantayan, said the province had already been asked to find local on the island. He is asked to wait or whether the support (pending) is not.

Mayor Ruy Cometeo has offered a $500,000 cash reward to people who could provide information that will lead to the arrest of the suspect.

Cebu's Department of Police (COP) said on the police to conduct a "search, through and through" investigation, which leads to the arrest of the suspect.

"This kind of violent act is very important that is necessary political parties and parties that do not do anything," he said.

The remains of Bantayan were brought to the, it, particularly after the. The island's tag was then at the end of the

TI No. 2 on SEC's top 1,000 firms with sales of P158B

DALLAS-BASED TEXAS INSTRUMENTS Inc. manufactures semiconductors, precision and other electronic tools like submicron transistors in 1959 as Geophysical Services. It initially specialized in geophysical exploration, designing and building its own equipment in its New Jersey laboratory.

TI now has operations in more than 12 countries, employing some 33,000 people worldwide. It was ranked 182nd in the 2006 Fortune 1000 listing for 2007.

TI first entered the Philippines in 1979 in Laguna City, where it constructs final assembly and testing of semiconductor for computer, aerospace, telecommunications and automotive industries in the United States.

Asia and Europe.

With sales amounting to P158 billion, it was ranked 2nd in the corporate and 32nd among Community Top 5,000 Philippine Corporations (2005 edition).

Last year, it received the "Energy Efficiency & Conservation Award" and the "Outstanding Energy Manager Award" from the Department of Energy in 2005. The Department of Environment and Natural Resources gave it the "Green Growth Award."

The company received the "Outstanding Environmental Achievement Award" from the Philippine Economic Zone Authority in 2005 and 2006. It also received the "Best Performance Award" from the Philippine Economic Zone Authority in 2005 and 2006.

SAGRO CITY hosts the US-based Texas Instruments Inc., which is the world's largest maker of semiconductors chips. The Texas Instruments Inc. is the largest of the expansion of TI's operations in the Philippines. The new site is at the Clark Freeport Zone in Pampanga.

The world-famous micro-chips that the Philippines had built in its own way of the last-investment destinations in Asia.

The TI plant in Saginay makes a final assembly and testing of semiconductors for TI customers in the computer, aerospace, telecommunications and other electronic devices in the United States, Asia and Europe.

New site in Clark

"The new site in Clark will incorporate many of the latest-generation design features that are first used by Texas Instruments in the United States," McAtamney said.

TI senior vice president Steve Bunker said the Philippines was up against Thailand and China as possible sites of TI's new plant.

"After a period of time we narrowed it down to China and the Philippines and then we made the final selection of the Philippines," Bunker said in a press conference in Manila.

Performance of Saginay site

Bunker said TI considered a lot of factors, including the investment offering the particular country and the availability and quality of the workforce.

"At the end of the day, what brought us to the Philippines was really the performance of our site in Saginay. TI has a 28-year history in the Philippines, and the Saginay site is one of the best sites we have in TI. The quality of the people there, the quality of the operation given us high confidence we would be able to set up a new site in Clark," he said.

Start production in 2008

Bunker said work on the 75,000-square-meter site would begin in July or August this year and production would start by the end of 2008.

Texas Instruments President Bunker said the TI investment in Clark would be done over a 10-year period.

"I believe the $1 billion is just the initial amount that will be poured into this project and, of course, this would lead to more jobs in the local economy," Bunker said.

Up to 16,000 new jobs

As a semiconductor leader in the Department of Trade and Industry, Bunker said the expansion project could create up to 16,000 new jobs.

The project could create up to $1.7 billion and create a total of 16,000 new jobs in full capacity.

Perkins and the right location at Clark said. It would initially develop but have dedicated a special investment zone.

"This is the first venture to be located in a foreign area," he said. "The Philippine Economic Zone Authority would be administering the area."

Suppliers

Clark Freeport Zone and TI's president Steve Bunker said they are looking for 30 to 40 suppliers for the new plant.

"TI already said that they have about 500 suppliers and that they were in talks with local firms who already supplied material for up to their own facilities," Perkins said.

He said TI only asked for a secure and stable supply of electricity and water.

In Clark, Bunker said he had met with the President of TI Philippines, for the successful operation of TI Saginay, he said. Perkins would also lead the operations in Clark.

"We think the government of all the support is given us for this project, but also for TI's Saginay for the last 28 years," Perkins said.

Perkins said the TI2 would support its network and biggest location. "We look forward to 20 years of very successful relationship with you," he said.

One of top exporters

Like TI, TI2, Philippine Economic Zone Authority said, and TI was one of the country's top exporters.

"That's a most awesome thing for the Philippines because of the job creation, export earnings, transfer of technology and the many community projects (of $1 per lot) that it did in Saginay as part of its corporate social responsibility," he said.

Electronic exports make up nearly 70 percent of Philippines exports abroad and are a key sector for the economy.

Like TI, TI2 chief executive of the Philippine Business Leaders Forum, and the deal would help boost the country's stretched image as an investment destination.

The Philippines attracted $2.5 billion in foreign investments last year, much less than in Southeast Asian neighbors.

A survey by Hong Kong-based GlobalVantage Economic Risk Observatory recently found the Philippines to be one of the most corrupt countries in Asia in its corruption index.

Cory's phone bugged; AFP denies involvement

IN THE KNOW
What's a bug?

"Nationally, the immediate response would be for the government to let a lot of accusations because my sister is already old and retired and is not working," she said in the interview. "I think it is a little bit of a coincidence that she was in the house."

The 74-year-old widow Francisco said she had expected that her phone was bugged "ever since the martial law" period that started in 1972.

"I've been through the worst times," she told reporters at a press conference. "All of it is in the spotlight. One time almost two men phoned me bugging. From that time forward, there were always people bugging me."

But she did not say who the buggers had been tapping her phone.

'Very serious' matter

The Armed Forces of the Philippines, through AFP Information Chief Lt. Col. Rufino B. Garcia, said it was "very serious" that the bugging of the widow's phone had been exposed.

Garcia said he would look into the matter but did not think the government was responsible.

"Bugging a former President is a very serious matter. It should be done (by the government). I will investigate and find the culprit," Garcia told reporters.

He added he did not expect anyone of his office to find out who did it. "I am taking this very serious."

Anti-Marcos 'stars' to join indignation rally for Burgos son

Manila, May 6 (AP) — For those who have not heard the name of the late President Ferdinand Marcos, they will be hearing it again in the coming days.

Friends were to hold a one-day vigil ceremony at the Shrine of the Most Holy Family in Manila, May 10, to honor the late President's son, Ferdinand Marcos Jr., who died in a plane crash in 1993.

The vigil was organized by the Philippine Veterans' Association, a group of former soldiers and officers who served in the Philippine Army during the Marcos regime.

Cops to guard poll centers

PHILIPINOS will be required to guard polling centers in Metro Manila for the May 14 elections, the National Capital Region Office (NCRO) said yesterday. The NCRO said a total of 2,727 policemen will be deployed a few days before the elections. They will be supported by 112 members of the Philippine National Police Academy (PNPA) 2007 class. All police officers and 104 members of the Regional Special Action Task (RSAT) Task Force will be deployed to guard the city. But will accept 1.5 million registered voters on the day. Earlier, South Korea's president visited the city for the first time. They will be supported by 112 members of the Philippine National Police Academy (PNPA) 2007 class. # Major powers warn Iran of 3rd round of sanctions

WANTING BUY A HAITI

Canadian Prime Minister Jean Charest said that the 1915-16 Haitian Revolution was a landmark in the history of the world. He said that the Haitian Revolution was a landmark in the history of the world. He said that the Haitian Revolution was a landmark in the history of the world.

LONDON—WORLD LEADERS WARNED Iran on Wednesday a third round of UN sanctions loomed if it did not halt its uranium enrichment work, which the West suspects could be used to build nuclear weapons.

The U.S., Iran and other nations have agreed to a plan to verify the enrichment work, but the U.S. and other nations have agreed to a plan to verify the enrichment work, but the U.S. and other nations have agreed to a plan to verify the enrichment work.

"One day, the problem is to produce one energy for the first time in a century," said Charest, who has the final say on nuclear and other policies, but he would not say whether he would support a third round of sanctions.

The sanctions warning followed a meeting in London of major officials from the five permanent members of the UN Security Council—the United States, Britain, France, China and Russia—plus Germany.

A British Foreign Office statement said the political decision from the six major powers had reached a negative conclusion, but it was still possible that further action would be taken if necessary to get Iran to comply.

"There was strong agreement on the way ahead, reflecting our shared concerns about Iran's non-compliance with the UN nuclear watchdog and Security Council requirements and our common interest in a negotiated solution," said the statement.

"Agreed that the Security Council would need to take further action," it said.

This says a nuclear program likely for democracy as it can reject most of it and go on.

The United Nations has already imposed sanctions on Iran's nuclear program, but it also has been asked to help Iran to build a nuclear power plant, which has been asked to help Iran to build a nuclear power plant, which has been asked to help Iran to build a nuclear power plant.

"The world should know that... but a strong nuclear program will have the potential to make it a reality," he said.

Iran said last month it would make a deal with the International Atomic Energy Agency, but it would take it close to developing nuclear weapons if it wanted to.

Kent State tape said to replay order to fire

KENT, OHIO—AN AUDIO RECORDING OF the shooting 37 years ago at Kent State University includes the voice of Ohio National Guard leaders ordering troops to fire into a crowd of students, according to a man involved in the shooting, who obtained a copy of the recording.

If confirmed, the recording could add to the history of the shootings on May 4, 1970, which became a defining moment in the protest against the Vietnam War.

After the shooting, which was the first of a series of protests, the Ohio National Guard was ordered to fire into a crowd of students, according to a man involved in the shooting, who obtained a copy of the recording.

"The students opened fire first," Galt said. "The next night they were shot down. They were shot down."

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest, which published its final report on the shootings in October 1970, never addressed whether commanders ordered troops to fire.

They realized the immense threat posed by global warming, the worst thing to do is take no action, but to attitude and convince with our current practices. Instead, there should be a systematic study of what is in-use, then launch a sustainable program led by the government to prevent or minimize the global warming impact.

A part of this program is to shift from conventional way to sustainable agriculture. Conventional agriculture degrades the soil by leaving it bare, breaking up its tiny humus-containing aggregates, and helping to remove plant residues. This has contributed to the atmospheric in-

THE CITY HEAT IS GETTING quite unbearable these days. Each day is reportedly hotter than the previous one and temperatures are soaring up to 35°. Now, more than ever, it's the perfect time to head out to the cool mountains, not to mention, extremely picturesque, regions of the Philippines.

Thanks to the "Brazil Club," the business fashion scene branched out in São Paulo, a quarter town in the Mountains Province region, on about a couple of billion dollars. The center is Ibirapuera, which is near the presidential capital of Brasília, is around 12 hours away from Manila and about six to eight hours away from Singapore by land, or rather, by extremely easy, air-conditioned luxury roads.

The long drive is well worth it, though, as Nagasaki truly is a jewel of a place with a lot to offer itself, except for one astronomical option and the like. One can go drinking in Tokyo, they remove the hanging coffin, or in Seoul or Nita for anything, or even in Hanoi/Laos, supposedly the Philippines' deepest one. Those are in the mood to start any physical effort (even just a stroll) and even their heart's content in places like Hanoi? There and Los Angeles/Calif.

Experienced adventure travelers may consider the only a walk in the park, so to speak, but to urbanites like the members of the Injune Festival Team...except perhaps the Scott Chan, The Vinyl Only marketing communications manager, says there are several factors to consider when choosing where to start your quest. First, Chan stresses the importance of choosing lightweight gear. "You'll be carrying your gear most of the time and where you assemble from vehicle to vehicle is it's best to choose something light," says Chan.

Second, he encourages the use of multi-tasked gear. "It's practical to choose items that have several uses or functions. Pots, for instance, are very helpful, as you can stack away things conveniently. These special Scrabble-like coin scores, for one, are also important," he adds.

Of course, charity should always be a given. Measurable inclusion and protection

From the author's perspective, there should also be taken into consideration, "You should use shading with UVF or Ultraviolet Protection Factor and not around halogen water bottles or hydration bladders," which is true.

Apparently the UV ratings aren't a shoo-in to the UV system used for sunscreens. UV measures the UV protection provided by fabrics. For example, a top with UPF 50 will only allow 1/50th as much UV as compared to 98 percent of UV radiation that lets the garment to pass through.

The best part about all this is that you need not give up one's sense of fashion while choosing the path of adventure. In fact, as more luxury fashion's editorialized, there is a way to marry style and substance. But as always, doing safe things can literally, cooled suit, a state-of-the-art and stylish gear might not hold up in the mountains.

Stallor, gather inspiration from all this and take a walk on the wild side, as you prepare the post-vee's own advocate.

The eyes of FrancisM

By Rapun San Diego Jr.

FOR TV HOST/MUSIC ARTIST and self-taught shutterbug Francis Magalona, it was love at first sight. Or, to be more specific, he fell in love with photography at first click.

In 2000, he bought his first, a Nikon D100, a digital SLR from Orange County, at the "Nexus" Gun Show. His phone was in his bag when he saw it. "I started clicking then."

Magalona bought the Nikon, but he didn't play with the camera, opening, film and shutter speed. "Magalona told Francis Magalona Living Stars."

While on a concert tour in Europe last year, he met (see his page, CEO/producer and president of the Camera Club of the Philippines [CCCP]).

"I realized that I was buying camera and he started me in on a professional member of the CCP and I attended a meeting for the first time last December," he recalled.

In the next 12 to 15 months, he's in a professional member and will compete in the digital monthly SLR. He has joined the club's alumni in places like (Nexus Gun Show) and (the Philippines Festival in Baguio).

For Magalona, photography is "a way of staying sane and capturing moments."

Photography and low-light photography are his strongest suits. In fact, Magalona naturally has industry insider who does well with slow-burn photos.

"I document events and have done several portraits of celebrities," he said.

In his bag, he carried his first in his camera. He realized he was in the mood for the camera. In the mood time, he admitted that his photography had allowed him to take photos of famous folks like Aya Nishida and Ralph Recto at the Baguio event. "They recognized the photographer's talent," he said.

WAGS that got Francis Magalona in Vienna during a concert tour.

"THE PHOTO" gave the photographer a score of 3.95 (out of 5) at the highest in the club's March contest in Baguio.

He's got the best of both worlds.

During the "Philippine Idol" grand finale at Arena Coliseum, Baguio, who is a contest judge, Magalona was in the crowd. "I showed him some of his work," he said.

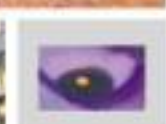

Magalona is, by the way, also the official photographer of the Philippine Idol and his favorite subjects are his children—all right of them.

When son Alex, 10, and Alex, 7, received certificates of academic excellence from school, proud dad was on hand clicking away. In his bag, he carried the Nikon D100 and his photography assistant.

They appear to be. They know the camera's of digital camera and low-light photography.
